Item 1.02 Termination of a Material Definitive Agreement.

On September 4, 2018, Agios Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (the “Company”) and Celgene Corporation (“Celgene”) agreed to terminate (i) the collaboration and license agreement dated April 27, 2015 between the Company and Celgene and (ii) the collaboration and license agreement dated April 27, 2015 between the Company’s wholly owned subsidiary Agios International Sarl and Celgene International II Sarl, in each case effective as of September 4, 2018 (the “AG-881 Agreement Termination Date”). The Company and Celgene had established a joint worldwide collaboration focused on the development and commercialization of products containing AG-881. From and after the AG-881 Agreement Termination Date, the Company will obtain sole global rights to AG-881 and no party will have a financial obligation to the other parties, including milestones, royalties or other payments, except that (a) Celgene shall be eligible to receive royalties from the Company at a low single-digit percentage rate on worldwide net sales of products containing AG-881 and (b) the Company and Celgene shall split certain agreed-upon worldwide development costs for AG-881 until December 31, 2018. In addition, for a specified period and subject to specified exceptions, Celgene and its affiliates shall be prohibited from developing, manufacturing or commercializing any product that inhibits isocitrate dehydrogenase 1 at specified levels of binding for any indication and the Company shall be prohibited from developing, manufacturing or commercializing AG-881 in hematologic indications.
